CATALOGUE

OF

ROBERT B. CHAMBERS'

COLLECTION OF AMERICAN

COINS AND MEDALS.

MOUNT PLEASANT, ROXBURY, MASS.,

February 1st, 1866.

The collection described in the present catalogue, though not large, comprises many most desirable specimens, particularly in the departments of Washingtons and Colonials.

Scattered through the catalogue will be found nearly an entire series of the national and other mint medals in bronze, with many in silver.

The descriptions have been drawn as correctly as possible, and I think it will be found that the pieces are not overrated.

As soon after the sale as they can be got ready, priced catalogues will be forwarded to order at $1 each—with names of purchasers added, the price will be $2 each.

Priced catalogues of my last sale are now ready, price $1.50.

About the last of April, I shall offer for sale in New York, at the Book Trade-sale Rooms of J. E. Cooley, the collection of Francis S. Hoffman, Esq. Catalogues will be ready early in April.

1730 Gointoem Strong, Boston. Particular attention is called to the character of this Collection, it being perhaps the most remarkable ever offered for sale in America. As the owner's name does not appear in the "Directory," it is presumed that he modestly chose to conceal his identity by a nom de plume. Should the enterprising proprietor ever be found, it is to be hoped he will receive some fitting testimonial, both on account of the select nature of his collection and the remarkable literary ability displayed in the production of the catalogue.
